Use Case Example: Global Law Firm

A global law firm utilizes the iManage document management system to store depositions, discovery documents, and confidential client files.

While iManage is a good application for storing legal material, it doesn't provide an easy process to securely send files to both internal and external counsel. Legal staff have to first download files from the iManage system to their desktops, go to Microsoft Outlook, and browse their computer to find the necessary file. This process is cumbersome and error prone.

- Audit trail for all files
- Files sent as secure links for data security
